Class 10 SST - Chapter 18: Development

🌟 Introduction to the Chapter

The idea of development or progress has always been with us. Different persons can have different developmental goals. What may be development for one may not be development for the other.

📌 Income and Other Goals

Besides seeking more income, people also seek things like equal treatment, freedom, security, and respect of others. They resent discrimination. In some cases, these may be more important than more income or more consumption because material goods are not all that you need to live.

⚡ National Development

If individuals seek different goals, their notion of national development is also likely to be different. It is very important to keep in mind that different persons could have different as well as conflicting notions of a country's development.

How to Compare Different Countries or States?

Usually, we take one or more important characteristics of persons and compare them based on these characteristics.

- For comparing countries, their income is considered to be one of the most important attributes.
- However, since countries have different populations, comparing total income will not tell us what an average person is likely to earn. Hence, we compare the average income which is the total income of the country divided by its total population (also called per capita income).

❌ Common Mistakes to Avoid

> [!WARNING]
>
> 1. Per Capita Income limitation: While averages are useful for comparison, they hide disparities. High average income doesn't mean equality.

📝 Quick Revision

Human Development Index (HDI)

Income by itself is not a completely adequate indicator of true development. UNDP publishes the Human Development Report which compares countries based on the educational levels of the people, their health status, and per capita income.
